

Get VText: Article Linker

Get VText Get VText

If you search a database for journal articles on a particular subject, you will hopefully get a page of results. When looking at a results page, you will often see the Get VText icon. Get VText is an article linker. It searches Virginia Tech's library journal holdings (print and electronic) for the results of the search. This program is looking to see if Virginia Tech has access to the specific journal or article. The Get VText program will then display the available options. It may be a link to a full text article or a link to an electronic journal site or a print journal. If the item is not available it will give you a link to request the item via interlibrary loan (ILLiad.)
