

Press Conferences of Franklin D. Roosevelt, 1933-1945

Microfilm. Unclassed film no. 5197

Stenographic transcripts of FDR's 1,011 press conferences are original sources for the New Deal era and the public face of Roosevelt as World War II leader. They provide information about social and economic conditions in the United States as well as U.S. foreign policy. The conferences are continuously paged from one roll to the next, with each roll generally comprising one full year.

Finding aid: Subject indexes, including notes indicating scope of each press conference, precede each volume on the individual reels.

Map Room Messages of President Roosevelt (1939-1945)

Microfilm E742.5 R63 1981

The White House Map Room was FDR's primary daily link with a war that was being fought simultaneously across two oceans and three continents. This collection publishes the confidential messages received in the Map Room from Roosevelt's leading war-time contemporaries from around the world -- politicians, diplomats, and military commanders -- organized by correspondent. Topics cover the whole scope of Allied military and diplomatic activities including intelligence findings and questions of public information policies.
